Paving
Problems
Confront
School Boards

THE PAVING of sections of city streets which front on school property is getting to be quite a problem. It can never get any better until some definite plan is formulated which will apply in all cases. This problem confronted the city schools a short time ago and was then settled through the voting by the people of a bond issue sufficient to take care of the paving needed at that time. This settled the matter temporarily, but the problem will be brought up from time to time as the city grows and some other way of handling the matter should be devised.

THE high school authorities are now facing a real problem, the paving of Colorado street fronting on both the new and old high school grounds. They are confronted with the same objection the city schools had, namely, no available funds to pay for the paving unless money which was collected from the taxpayers for educational purposes be used. In the present case, doing this would be wrong in two ways. It would not only take money from educational uses but would actually take away from the students facilities much needed, lack of which would cause a distinct loss in efficiency.

IT is our opinion that this paving cost could and should be absorbed by the city. Sufficient funds are now available in the city treasury to take care of the matter for the present and in the future the needed amount could be put in the budget. Eight thousand dollars would be a small item to the city, but a large one for the school to have to take care of.

AT last night's meeting of the high school trustees a committee from the Elks' club presented the matter of the paving of that section of Colorado street which fronts on the old high school grounds, and also on those of the Elks' clubhouse. While the entire membership of the board was in sympathy with the paving project a majority could not agree to use money for this purpose when it was so badly needed for school uses.

BIG FIGHT OPENS AT 5:30 — GLENDALE TIME

HIGH TRUSTEES HOLD MIDNIGHT VIGIL FOR WORK

Delegations Heard, Paving Bill Discussed, Contracts Let, Etc.

Trustees of Glendale High were all present at a session held Thursday evening which did not adjourn until midnight because so many matters were brought before it for consideration—bids for desks and for electrical fixtures, for cafeteria equipment, appeals for an appropriation to help pave Colorado, contracts with other districts for the admission of their students, contract for towel laundering, and other things.

Student Transportation
A delegation from the Elks Club, Tujunga and Sunland to discuss the transportation of students from those districts to the high school. Some time ago a position was presented to the board signed by 45 asking it to contract for such transportation with the Verdugo Hills Bus line. Delegates present last night declared their names had been attached under a misunderstanding and they now wished to withdraw them. Because of the diversity of opinion regarding the matter the board decided to take a vote on the matter. Ballots will be sent to the heads of families in the district and on receipt of same the board will take action.

Colorado Paving
A delegation from the Elks Club, composed of Earl Patterson, James McBryde and William Hunter, waited upon the board with a request that it reconsider its decision with regard to the paving of Colorado frontage abutting on the present high school plant, opposite the Elks Club, also the alley abutting on the campus in the rear of Brand. The board stood pat on its original motion to the effect that it would be unable because of lack of funds for the purpose, to appropriate the $8000 needed for the paving of that section of the boulevard.

Electrical Fixtures
The following bids were submitted for electrical fixtures for the new high school, not including alternates:
J. A. Newton Electric Co., bid No. 1, $3466.30; No. 2, $4703.55.
Glendale Electric Co. (solar light) bid No. 1, $5661; No. 2, $2681.35.
Hall & Son, bid No. 1, $5160; No. 2, $4520.
McNewery Electric Co., bid No. 1, $3855; No. 2, $4685.70.
Switzer-Alexander Co., bid No. 1, $1450; No. 2, $2139.67.

Action was deferred on the awarding of contract subject to investigation of the different systems. Each bidder will be asked to equip one of the rooms in the high school with the proposed fixtures which will be inspected by the board before it takes action.

Desk Bids
Bids for desks were submitted as follows:
Hayward & Wakefield, $6.29 K.D. and $6.49 installed.
Rucker-Fuller Co., $7.39 installed.
C. F. Webber, $6.85 installed.
Jones Book Store, $6.85 installed.

Action on these bids was deferred until the board would have opportunity to inspect the desks next Friday.

Night School
Next Monday night was named for the opening of night school and A. L. Ferguson, principal, was authorized to employ the necessary teachers, the salary scale this year to be $5.50 for the principal and $4.50 for teachers per night. This is an increase over last year but is in accord with salaries paid in surrounding communities.

Cafe
Equipment for the school cafe was discussed but action was deferred until the next meeting of the board.

Outside Students
A contract for the admission of Eagle Rock students, signed by the Los Angeles Board of Education was presented and officers of Glendale High were instructed to execute it on behalf of the board.

Chemistry Tables
The house committee was authorized to purchase tables for the chemistry department.

Towel Laundering
A proposition to launder high school towels at a rate of 14¢ each or one-half the price charged by other laundries, was submitted by Arthur Sherburne and was accepted by the board.

FREE THEATER TICKETS GO TO LUCKY PERSONS

Free theater tickets are being given away by the merchants whose advertising appears on the special theater page in today's issue of the Glendale Daily Press. This special page will appear today, but hereafter every Monday, and free theater tickets will be presented all persons whose names appear in the advertisements.

This special feature page of the Press, run in conjunction with the T. D. & L. theater and the merchants, promises to be an attraction that should possess a strong pulling power for advertisers. The names are picked at random every Monday from the city directory, and one name appears at the bottom of each advertisement on the page. The theater tickets are good for ten days and are absolutely free to the persons whose name appears in the advertisement and who calls in person for the same at the store advertising. Watch this page every Monday, and get your free theater tickets. Some big attractions are on at the T. D. & L. theater next week and you will want to see them.

PUBLICITY PLANS FOR ELECTRIC ENGINE ENTHUSIAST

Supt. Hatch Approves; Will Send Wm. Nagel to Chaperone Little Beauty

Superintendent P. L. Hatch entirely approves the suggestion that the new electric engine, which is being built at Pittsburgh for the Glendale-Montrose railroad be used to advertise this city at the great convention of electrical engineers to be held in Atlantic City, where it will be exhibited, and also along the way home.

He states that the company is sending an enthusiastic Glendalean, William Nagel, an employee, who lives at 311 Geneva, to have charge of the engine from the time it leaves the shops in Pittsburgh until it reaches Glendale and that he would be an excellent man to "talk Glendale" and hand out literature all along the line. He will attend the convention as the representative of the Glendale-Montrose Railroad and accompany the engine on its homeward journey when it will run on its own trucks but form a part of a regular train.

Mr. Nagel is a practical electrical engineer who has lived in Glendale a long time and is a great booster for the city. He was one of the contributors to the $25,000 bonus for the electrification of Glendale avenue south of Broadway.

The plan to placard the engine, the fastest growing city in the United States, as suggested by W. L. Twining at a recent meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, is also approved by Mr. Hatch, who says he and his company will be glad to co-operate with the advertising committee of the Chamber in the matter.

Before it leaves the shops the engine will be labeled in large gilt letters "Glendale-Montrose Railroad."

The company expects Mr. Nagel to leave here about the 20th of September and he will therefore have a chance to do missionary advertising for Glendale for some time, beginning in Pittsburgh.

LAST MINUTE NEWS BY WIRE FROM NEW YORK RINGSIDE ON BIG FIGHT

Two Gladiators of Fistic Arena Awoke This Morning Ready for Battle to Decide if Championship Crosses Equator or Stays in North America

BIG FIGHT OPENS AT 5:30, GLENDALE TIME

Firpo Says if Knocked Down Again and Again, Will Come Back Just as Often; Dempsey Says May Knock Out Firpo in First Round

NEW YORK, Sept. 14 (By Association Uress).—Two gladiators of the new world awoke in New York this morning ready for a battle to decide whether the fistic championship of the earth shall remain in North America or cross the equator and become the property of the Argentine republic.

These warriors, Jack Dempsey of the United States, present holder of the heavyweight championship and Luis Angel Firpo of the Argentine, scowling chieftain of South America's sluggers, will step into brilliantly lighted arena at the Polo Grounds at 9:30 o'clock.

tonight, New York daylight time, or 5:30 p. m. Pacific standard time, tonight. The main fight originally was set for 10 p. m., daylight time, but it was decided to advance it to 9:30. One of the scheduled semi-finals will follow the main bout. The warriors will be watched by a crowd of more than 90,000 persons, some of whom came all the way from Buenos Aires to see the meeting.

More than $1,000,000 will have been collected by Promoter Tex Rickard. Half of this amount will go to the fighters, 37½ per cent to Dempsey and the remaining 12½ per cent to Firpo. The rest goes to Mr. Rickard.

Some of the spectators have paid $27.50 for seats; others will pay $3.30 when the gates are opened at 4:30 o'clock. Still others have paid $150 to speculators, it was said.

The actual time Dempsey and Firpo will be fighting each other can not exceed 45 minutes. The bout is scheduled to last 15 rounds of three minutes each. Most experts and enthusiasts predict that it will not last nearly that long. Indeed, some have predicted that there will be less than three minutes of fighting. Most of the predictions of this sort come from those who think Dempsey will win. They are counting on a furious attack from the start with the result that Firpo will be knocked out in the first round. Many others think differently.

Firpo faces his ordeal without the backing of the experts. Virtually all of them expect him to be floored by the fighting machine North America has produced in the shape of Dempsey. "But I am not afraid," says the challenger. Psychology may play an important part in this physical test tonight. Firpo says he is not afraid. He has been hailed by his countrymen as the "man of destiny." His fellows of the Latin race are counting on him. He knows the great acclaim that would be his should he win the championship. Firpo will fight; everyone admits that, and those who say he will win are basing their predictions largely on his downright desire to win. They admit he lacks Dempsey's experience, his speed, his ring generalship; they admit he is somewhat awkward as war as boxing standards go. But, say they, Firpo has a mighty wallop; he can stand being hit hard and is able to take the blows Dempsey is bound to deliver and then finally land one glorious punch that will spell his victory.

"If I am knocked down again and again, I will come up again and again," says Firpo. They don't usually come up when Dempsey knocks them down. It is this dogged determination expressed by the Argentine that his backers are counting on. Dempsey stayed out of the ring the confidence of the champion. He has proved that he is a great fighter. Few men have been able to hit him. Only Tommy Gibbons, the St. Paul light heavyweight, has been able to withstand his onslaught for a full 15 rounds since he became champion. Gibbons was defeated even then on points at Shelby, Montana, last Fourth of July. Dempsey's other foes have faced him for a short time only. First he pounded his way to the title by giving big Jess Willard a terrific pummeling. Then came Billy Miske and Bill Brennan. Both fell before his smashing attacks. Then came a dapper Frenchman, Georges Carpentier, popular idol and war hero. But Carpentier was added to the list of victims. Dempsey stayed out of the ring two years until his fight two months ago with Gibbons. Some said he was not the Dempsey of old in that fight; that his man-killing powers were diminished. But Dempsey says now he is in better shape than he ever was. There is none of the braggard in his statement that he expects to win, for he says Firpo is big and strong and dangerous.

"If I can end the fight in one round, I'll do it," says Dempsey. The experts expect a slashing, tearing, terrific attack from the moment the first gong sounds to night. Will Firpo be able to face? That is what more than 90,000 persons are paying more than $1,000,000 to find out.

The fight will be a brilliant affair. In point of attendance, it is expected to rival the contest of two years ago when Dempsey won from Carpentier, an event that established a world's record for a prize fight. The historic Polo grounds, home of the New York Giants baseball club, has been made over for the occasion. Rickard announced last night that seats for 90,764 persons would be provided with plenty of standing room available.

The convention will open at Eureka on September 19, with preliminary sessions, addresses of welcome, etc., and the real work of the convention will begin on Thursday.

ROTARY CLUB PLANS PICNIC HEARS SPEAKER

Distinguished Guests Present; Community Chest Endorsed

The Glendale Rotary club had an exceedingly interesting meeting yesterday at its noon luncheon meeting which was held at the Egyptian Village cafe.

A large number of visiting Rotarians swelled the attendance. J. J. Brown, adjutant general of California, was among the visitors.

The meeting was presided over by the president, George Karr. Singing was led by the club's regular leader, Francis Murray. After the luncheon a meeting of the board of directors was held to act on a recommendation for donations to the quake fund of the Red Cross and $100 was voted.

Among the visiting Rotarians were the following: J. C. Crawford, T. H. Miller, J. J. King, Dale Echar, J. A. Small, all from Burbank; J. J. Born, Sacramento; John C. Bewley, Lodi; Jimmie Shelton, Leo Green, C. Milt Andrews and George Sellers of Los Angeles. Dr. Warren Z. Newton and Mr. Burton McGinnis, both members of the Community chest committee of the Chamber of Commerce, spoke of the work of their committee.

Dr. Newton, the chairman for the committee, recommended that a Community chest be inaugurated in Glendale in time to function this year.

On motion of Dick White the club went on record as enthusiastically endorsing the proposition and pledging the active support of every member.

Jim Rhoades as chairman of the picnic committee, reported that his committee recommended that the picnic be held on Wednesday, September 19, at Brookside park—the picnic to be for members and their families. The following program was suggested: From 4:30 to 5:30, ball game; 5:30 to 6, swimming in pool; 6:30 supper, with President George Karr as toastmaster. The understanding is that every member has to either speak a piece, sing a song, or pay a fine. The committee's report was adopted.

The meeting was concluded by a very interesting talk given by Dr. Arthur E. Hoare of Australia, his subject being "Democracy in the Antipodes." Dr. Hoare is a native of Australia who was educated in England. During the war he served in Egypt, Gallipoli and France in the medical service and later in the intelligence service.

JUDGE LOWE HAS 48 CASES LISTED

Judge Lowe has 48 cases of traffic violations on his docket for hearing today. The minimum fine in each case is $10. He says justice demands that he make it a limit in almost every case, but if he does, the innocent wife and children of the offender will suffer, and there you are.

JAPANESE WOMEN CANVASSSED FOR RELIEF FUND

Red Cross Secures $102 From Them and Their Husbands

Thursday a systematic canvass of the Japanese women of the city was made by Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, chairman of the Glendale Chapter, American Red Cross, accompanied by Mrs. Gotow and by Mrs. Andrew Findlay, who acted as chauffeur for the party. The various Japanese gardens and fruit stands of the city were visited and $102 was secured to swell the fund for the relief of earthquake sufferers in Japan. Today the canvass was to be continued.

These contributions brought the total of the fund to $2187.82. In addition to this Mrs. Bartlett has been advised that the Exchange Club, the Knights of Columbus and the Rotary Club have each pledged $100.

Besides this, she is informed that Japanese men of Glendale and Burbank have given $4000 to buy rice for their suffering countrymen.

The quota assigned Glendale is less than $3500. As Dr. Henry R. Harrower pointed out at the meeting of the Exchange Club, had the officials of the Pacific Division of the Red Cross been up to date on statistics of Glendale's population, the quota assigned it would have been $6,000. The doctor seemed to think it very creditable for the city to lag in its contributions and himself headed the subscriptions, as has been previously published, with a big check.

The gift of $1 from the head of every Glendale family would treble the amount required, and it is a shame when the community forces these devoted officials of the local chapter to make a house-to-house canvass for money which should come spontaneously.

The Glendale Press circulated a subscription list among its employees and secured $25 in about ten minutes. If all business establishments would do likewise, the money would speedily be available and could be sent forward on the mission of relief without the delays which mean prolonged hardship for stricken Japanese.

MYSTERY CASE IS SOLVED BY POLICE

Injured Boy Picked Up on Colorado, Finally Identified

The blotter of the police department revealed what appeared to be quite a mystery case in its report of an auto accident at 5:15 Thursday afternoon on Colorado, near Eagle Rock, when a boy in his teens was picked up in an unconscious condition near his machine, a cut-down Ford or "bug" bearing an Arizona license. He was taken to the Glendale Sanitarium where an endeavor was made to ascertain who he was as soon as he began to regain consciousness, nothing from his person indicating his name. The puzzling feature was that he gave three or four different names and addresses, none of which led anywhere. His friends finally turned up and stated that his real name is Dan Lovelless; that his mother, who is a movie actress, has been married four times and he has been known as Albert Curtis and as Milton Thompson. He is still at the sanitarium, where an x-ray will be taken of his skull to determine if he has sustained injury. Otherwise he appears to have suffered only minor cuts and bruises from the accident, which the Sanitarium authorities believe was a collision. The case was reported to police headquarters by J. H. Rohl of 237 South Verdugo road.

S. A. Waddell of 712 West California was another victim of accident when he was struck by a P. E. car on South Brand at 5:45. He too was taken to the Glendale Sanitarium where he was treated for minor injuries and sent home.

VILLA'S LARGE DOMAINS NOW HAVE NO LEADER

[By Associated Press]

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 14.—When Francisco Villa fell at Parral under a hail of bullets a small kingdom in the state of Durango lost its ruler, and nearly 6,000 potential soldiers their chief.

The fact that the former bandit leader exercised virtually feudal rights over an extent of mountains and plains as large as the state of Tlaxcala, with a population of nearly 100,000, came to light when a commission representing the "colonists" he had settled around about Canutillo journeyed to the capital to ask President Obregon what the policy of the government would be in regard to the Villa holdings. They were told that they would not be altered, and those of the former outlaw's followers who had devoted themselves to agriculture would not be molested.

When Villa first submitted himself to provisional President Adolfo de la Huerta, in 1920 and received, for himself and his 50 followers, the hacienda of Canutillo, the government thought the Villa problem had been solved. But when the pacified rebels learned of the good luck of those who had surrendered with him, hundreds of them addressed petitions to their former leader asking for lands in the district which he dominated. Villa complied, as did the government, and more ranches were bought and turned over to them for the formation of military-agricultural colonies.

Prior to his death, Villa was the dominating force in a district included in a line running from Rosario, along the border between Durango and Coahuila, through Descurridora, El Rodeo and back to Rosario by way of Ornelas. Various villages and towns are included in this district, but most of the inhabitants, despite the existence of these municipal governments, looked to Villa for justice.

Two youths who imagined themselves to be budding authors were discussing a certain magazine and its editor.

"The articles he selected were in very bad taste, they decided—stories unreadable and poetry absolutely putrid."

"And he is certainly terribly slow at reading manuscripts," said the one with the long hair.

"Do you think so?" asked the other. "Why, I remember the time when he went through six stories in less than a minute."

"Goodness!" exclaimed the first, "And when was that?"

His companion smiled as he replied: "When the elevator cables broke!"

Mr. Brown had had telephonic connection established between his office and house.

"I tell you Smith," he was saying, "this telephone business is a wonderful thing. I want you to dine with me this evening, and I will notify Mrs. Brown to expect you. (Speaking through the telephone): My friend Smith will dine with us this evening. Now listen and hear how distinctly her reply will come back."

Mrs. Brown's reply came back with startling distinctness: "Ask your friend Smith if he thinks we keep a hotel."

Speech enables a woman to conceal what she really thinks.

Editorials by the People

Editor, Glendale Daily Press:

In the year 1912, Miss Esther Frasher (now known as Mrs. Arthur Knox) and myself decided to take a western trip with California as our destination, so the month of June found us guests of Miss Ruth Widrig at Casa Verdugo, on Ruth street, now Palm avenue.

At that time we thought California a beautiful state and its cities and towns growing rapidly, but Glendale then consisted of one main thoroughfare, several side streets, a few nice stores and residences.

After a few months' stay in the west Miss Frasher and I returned to our homes in the east, well pleased with our visit; in fact, Miss Frasher was so pleased with California that she is now a resident of this beautiful city.

This summer I decided to take another trip west and see how it fared with Miss Frasher (now Mrs. Knox) and her parents and brothers, who had since taken up their abode here. When I arrived and was told I was in Glendale, I felt somewhat like old Rip Van Winkle must have when he awakened from his long sleep. The only familiar spots I recognized were a drug store and the sanitarium.

Glendale has grown far beyond my comprehension. It now boasts of many fine stores, churches and other buildings. Paved streets greet me on all sides. The people seem happy and everyone is busy. Buildings grow up over night. Every citizen is a booster and that helps growth considerably.

The residents of my home town, Mt. Clemens, Mich. (famous for its mineral waters), think they have a fine city, but many helpful points could be gleaned from Glendale.

Here is hoping this wonderful city will keep steadily going ahead and continue the fine work so well started.

TIMELY BRIEFS FROM INTERNAL REVENUE OFFICE

Income Tax, Third Instal- ment, Must Be Paid Tomorrow

Phenomenal expansion in the manufacture of oleomargarine was indicated in a special report on the production of that commodity in the Southern California District, which was forwarded to Washington yesterday by Collector of Internal Revenue Rex Goodcell.

The survey shows that during the fiscal year 1923 a total of 3,093,501 pounds of oleomargarine was manufactured, compared with 1,294,520 pounds produced during 1922. This shows an increase of 1,798,981 pounds, or 139 percent.

Collector Goodcell pointed out that it was expansion of this character in manufacturing lines in Southern California that was enabling the district to show a gain in tax receipts in the face of the $15,000,000 annual reduction made in Southern California's tax bill by the recent revenue act.

"In other words," said the collector, "expansion in the business of taxable industries and new taxes created by new enterprises are offsetting the immediate reduction in Federal taxes. Prosperity is making good the deficit."

HAYSE - M'NARY WEDDING ON SEPT. 12

In the presence of immediate relatives and a group of intimate friends, Miss Mavis June McNary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. McNary of 351 West Doran street, and Alden C. Hayse were united in marriage at 8 o'clock Wednesday night, September 12. Rev. W. E. Edmonds officiated.

Decorations of ferns and white carnations were used throughout the house. The bride wore a gown of white georgette and a corsage of white satin flowers. She was given in marriage by her father, C. E. McNary.

After the wedding, refreshments, including a large wedding cake, were served. Music entertained the guests, during which the bride slipped to her room to change her costume to her going-away suit of blue tulle. The young couple then made their way to the back door. They were met with a shower of rice.

Mr. and Mrs. Hayse were the recipients of many beautiful gifts. They plan to make their home in Glendale. Mr. Hayse is an employee of the Southern California Gas company.

Washington yesterday by Collector of Internal Revenue Rex Goodcell the amount of the gross income of an estate in process of administration is immaterial in determining whether a return of the income of the estate should be filed. It was held that it is only in cases where the annual net income of the estate is $1,000 or more, or in case of returns for a fractional part of a year where the net income for a period of less than one year placed on an annual basis is at the rate of $1,000 or more, that a return is required to be filed.

Saturday, September 15, at midnight, is the deadline for the payment of the third installment of income taxes. Collector Goodcell said yesterday that payments made to date were far in excess of the receipts for the same period of 1922.

Final check of the total amount of income tax assessed in the Southern California District for the calendar year 1922 and which must be collected by December 15 of this year, shows that the income tax bill of the district is $42,426,160.93. This is an increase of $1,500,000 over $1922.

It is an easy matter to get into the habit of meeting trouble half way.

ICE IS PLAYING IMPORTANT PART IN NIPPON RELIEF

According to officials in charge of Japanese relief work, conservation of food rather than supply is the big problem. While rice, flour, and canned goods comprise the bulk of the cargo carried by food ships, there is also an enormous amount of perishable foodstuffs being sent to the stricken country.

As these foodstuffs will be distributed in a region where the usual sanitary and hygienic conditions have been completely demoralized, the problem of conservation is of paramount importance. The situation calls for the most rigid measures to protect foodstuffs from contamination and to prevent the spoiling of perishable food. Every article of food counts, and it must be conserved at any cost.

Consequently efforts are being made to secure ice which will be depended upon for the conservation of perishable foods. The ice supply will be drawn from all available sources adjacent to the devastated territory and also from refrigerator ships. The refrigerator ship Arctic, which sailed from Mare Island, California, on September 8, was probably the first to reach the scene of the disaster. Other refrigerator ships will be pressed into service.

The spread of cholera which has been reported is without doubt due to the fact that people are eating food to stave off starvation. A spread of the pestilence would increase the difficulties of relief measures. Otherwise the supplying of food, shelter and medicinal supplies would be a comparatively easy task. Hence prompt action in securing sufficient ice is vitally necessary.

A certain painter is confined in an asylum. To persons who visit him he says:

"Look at this; it is my latest masterpiece."

They look, and see nothing but an expanse of bare canvas. They ask:

"What does that represent?"

"That? Why, that represents the passage of the Israelites through the Red sea."

"But pardon, but where is the sea?"

"It's been driven back."

"And where are the Israelites?"

"They have crossed over."

"And the Egyptians?"

"Will be here directly. That's the sort of painting I like—simple and unpretentious."

EASTERN STARS' STATE MEETING OCTOBER 16-19

Mrs. D. E. F. Easton, junior past grand matron of the order, is general chairman of the committee on arrangements.

When the central committee was organized to arrange for the convention, every chapter of the order agreed that its members would grow flowers that they were laying elaborate plans for the entertainment and welfare of the 10,000 delegates and visitors who are expected here from all sections of the state. Mrs. D. E. F. Easton, junior past grand matron of the order, is general chairman of the committee on arrangements.

A souvenir committee has also been named and has arranged for special souvenirs and a distribution of choice fruits to the delegates. Guests will not lack for entertainment. A varied program is being arranged and a special committee is planning automobile tours, trips round San Francisco bay on steamers and a grand ball.

The membership of the church and congregation are planning to attend the services Sunday en masse. It is hoped that every member will be present at either the morning or evening service. This is being planned as a welcome to Rev. Edmonds on his return from his vacation. Rev. Edmonds' morning sermon subject will be "Spiritual Mountain Tops" and the evening sermon promises to be of more than usual interest when he will discuss "Darkness at Noon."

The Presbyterians of Glendale and vicinity are looking forward with much anticipation to the coming of the Hon. William Jennings Bryan to the Tuesday Afternoon club house on Saturday evening of Plucky Daughter of Ship Captain Flew Far to Sea With Important Letters.

Miss Quinn Delivering Letters.

Seattle, Wash. The historic delivery of the Message to Garcia had its parallel in Puget Sound on the recent sailing to Far Cathay of the steamship President Madison of the Admiral Oriental Line. As the consequence of her enactment of a thrilling feat pretty Miss Mazie Quinn is one of the most popular and envied girls in all Seattle.

On the day of the sailing of the President Madison several mail trains from the East were delayed. On one of these trains was a package of diplomatic letters which were to be given the commander of the Admiral Oriental liner for personal delivery to a United States Government representative in Japan. Captain Thomas P. Quinn, captain of the President Madison, held his vessel as long as possible and then cast off for the Orient.

When the President Madison had been under way for two hours the telephone in the Quinn home rang and Miss Marie was informed that the diplomatic package was at the post-office.

She was asked if there was any way by which the letters could be placed aboard the President Madison. Miss Quinn did some fast thinking and then got into action. She would see to it that the letters were placed in the hands of her father aboard his ship.

Miss Quinn called up Eddie Hubbard, an aviator friend, at his hangar on the outskirts of the city, and told him to prepare for a flight to the President Madison. The young woman then rushed to the post-office in a fast

The subject of Mr. Bryan's address on Saturday evening will be "Science vs. Religion—Did God Make Man in His Own Image?" This subject is under discussion in many quarters and Mr. Bryan's presentation will doubtless be well received. It will be of special interest to any who are connected in any way with school or college work.

Truths in Epigram

And having looked to government for bread, on the very first scarcity they will turn and bite the hand that fed them—Burke.

Care to our coffin adds a nail, no doubt—Wolcott.

A circulating library in a town is an evergreen tree of diabolical knowledge—Sheridan.

THE DEGENERATE DRUNK

Several men were arrested in Pasadena not long ago as drunk and disorderly, the correctness of the charges being affirmed by long-suffering neighbors. There was no evidence that the group had been drinking whisky, not even the debased form of the stuff vended by bootleggers. They had won the desired degree of intoxication by consuming a paraffine mixture heavily tintured with alcohol, and designed to serve as fuel for campers equipped with tiny stoves. In addition to this noxious and unnatural stimulant, they had swallowed the content of certain bottles of cooking extracts.

Not even the palate of the habitual drunkard could have accepted this stuff with relish. It must have been taken despite its distasteful qualities, or the ambition to become sudden nuisances could not have been realized. The appetite for drink becomes a disease. When the craving demands a "kick," that is to say, an effect sufficient to destroy intelligence and physical control, it surely is a manifestation of disease, or it shows the exceedingly low plane upon which it is possible for the sunken strata of humanity to function.

The person who is fool enough to chew paraffine flavored with alcohol, for the sake of letting people around him know what a fool he is, presents a rather desperate case for treatment. He is under the disadvantage of having no reason to which appeal may be made. He is not in any sense a social asset, but a liability, and usually there is necessity for regarding him as a total loss.

JAPAN COMING BACK

Happily Japan has not been crushed into utter helplessness and hopelessness. The people are recovering from the shock of their recent experience. The losses are less than had been supposed. The Japanese must have been greatly cheered by the sympathy expressed in so many quarters, and the substantial form the sympathy found by which to express itself, probably was a revelation. At any rate it was cheering.

It may be that even the great calamity is to result in ultimate good. It might do this by changing the current of thought away from military achievement, in the struggle to rehabilitate its business and to get back to a normal of industry, Japan may see the wisdom of a course promotive of peace. A great problem has been thrust upon it. To meet this problem will require all its energy and all its material resource. There will be no time to think of conquest, and perhaps less inclination to do so.

Japanese jingoes have for years sought to stir Japan to strife with the United States. Agitators of similar type have been equally busy here. When Japan was in trouble, the readiness with which Americans sought to rush aid to the sufferers, probably was more convincing to the Japanese mind than any amount of soapbox declaiming could be.

DIVORCES IN FRANCE

Statistics show that divorce is increasing in France. In 1913 there were 19,000 petitions for divorce, and in 1920 the number had grown to 35,000. The statistics show also that a large ratio of divorces are among the childless. Where divorces are granted for the usual statutory offense, there are more women than men accused. In a general way these figures may be interesting. Perhaps the fashion the French may favor in the matter of divorce is not of great importance to the people of this country. They are somewhat concerned, however, at the American habit, apparently becoming more marked, of going to France for the purpose of severing marriage relations assumed in the United States.

That bringing such actions abroad constitutes a slight to an American industry is not the important point. The important point is the likelihood of fraud. That a man or woman citizen of the United States goes across seas to win divorce, will be accepted as evidence that the course has not been taken in good faith. In instances that have been exposed, wives have been divorced and have not been aware of the fact until informed that the recent husband, with a new and legal wife, was celebrating his honeymoon in Europe.

Often there are ample grounds for divorce, and when these exist, the desired freedom may be obtained in domestic courts. There is an advantage to the plaintiff in so obtaining it, for it does not put him or her in the light of trying to accomplish by trick and device, that which it is possible to accomplish legally. If these foreign divorces procured for residents of the United States are valid in law, nevertheless they are without standing in a moral or ethical sense.

RUIN BY TAXATION

A visitor to Europe, recently returned, says that the financial distress of Germany is due to the heavy taxes there. His view will be regarded as singular. One of the protests of the Europeans to whom Germany owes money, is that there is no taxation. The new minister of finance outlined not long ago a drastic system of taxation, and when mentioning his intention did so with the air of one making an experiment.

But if the producers are being taxed to impoverishment, some question arises as to what is done with the money. If the people have an earning capacity, and are forced to turn over a large share of their earnings to the government, it is readily to be seen that through such process they might become poor. At the same time the spectacle of the government as poverty-stricken as the populace, is anomalous. If industry is rewarded, but later deprived of its wage, the power absorbing the amount does not appear to have the right to assert its own insolvency. If it does so assert, it may be called upon to explain why the money went. Such inquiry easily might be embarrassing.

The mark, after a long downward trend, has reached the point of utter worthlessness. There seems to be nothing behind the mark. With the government in receipt of enough money to represent the ruin of individuals compelled to provide it, there ought to be something upon which to base the now useless token. The tourist quite evidently has failed to get at the heart of the matter.

Ku Klux klansmen are forbidden to appear masked in some states. Thus is the joy being taken out of life. Doubtless half the fun of belonging lies in the chance to be part of a mystery. Stripped of sheet and pillow-case, the klansman is a mere human unit, devoid of special interest.

"UNQUESTIONING OBEDIENCE"

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY
When anybody advises "unquestioning obedience" I always want to ask:
"Why do people have minds?"

Estelle Lawton Lindsey

No doubt our new President, Mr. Coolidge, believes that the best way to induce desirable conditions in America is for the masses to render "unquestioning obedience" to legislative enactment. At any rate he advises that course.

Now if legislators were always honest, unflinching intelligent, divinely disinterested, above corruption and impartially social minded, we might be willing to accept their laws and ordinances without question.

As things are, the best we can in honesty promise to do is to obey the laws while they are on the statute books. But we can't promise not to question them without stultifying our highest gift, intelligence.

A thing is not necessarily right merely because a group of legislators have written it on the statute books of a state or nation.

If there had been unquestioning obedience in the days of Rome, slaves would still spend their lives chained to the doors that they opened. Unquestioning obedience under the government of the Russian czars would have left on the statute books that distracted country the cruel law that made it legal to bury alive with her head out, any woman who killed her husband while he was beating her. Unquestioning obedience in France would have kept intact the barbarous custom, legal and accepted in the time of the Louis, of branding slaves on the shoulder with the fleur de lis.

Slavery lived in the United States by legal enactment until the civil war. Unquestioning obedience would have continued it to the present day. The abolitionists of slavery days, the prohibitionists, the enemies of the white slave traffic, the suffragists, all were people incapable of "unquestioning" obedience to law.

And what of Oliver Cromwell, William of Orange and that Jesus whom we know as the Christ, he who was crucified because he questioned the laws of the scribes and the Pharisees?

"Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's," said Christ, but he did not say, "obey without question."

What did he say, and say often, was this, after referring to some law or regulation of the priests and rabbis, "But I say unto ye"—and so on. And a new commandment I give unto you, that ye love one another."

A law abiding country is an orderly country, but an unquestioning citizen body is one swiftly moving toward slavery, for it is only when the mind ceases to function that the lips keep sealed or the rising question is bitten back.

Mr. President, we are a loyal and law abiding people, but we are intelligent and as intelligent and loyal patriots it is our duty to examine and question the work of our lawmakers and when it is found defective it is our duty to see that it is corrected.

A legislator is made by the voters. Shall a man not criticize his own creations?

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM
Most of the tenderhearted people in our town say that the members of the school board are a lot of unholly old ruffians.

"They have discharged Professor Shanks," they say, "although he has been teaching history in the schools for thirty years."

We did—and we're glad of it—and it will be months before I can enter my own home without a cloud of Professor Shankses clattering down from the top shelf, so to speak. Mrs. P. is one of the most devoted of his adherents.

But—we fired him and he'll stay fired. He taught us, and our sons, and our grandsons, if we have any. And all in the same way. The battle of Waterloo was a date. Wellington was a date. Columbus was a date. Washington, Bunker Hill, Gettysburg, all were dates. If a scholar knew his dates parrot-like he passed in history. If he didn't he was flunked. But of history—of what history means—of history as a story of progress or retrogression or stagnation, Shanks knew nothing. He was a sort of a mathematical wonder. He could remember any date, but his pupils had not the haziest idea why we fought for independence or why we had trouble with Mexico or why France and Britain were alternately at peace and war.

Nothing—in the conviction of the hardened old sinners of the school board—is so important to the tutoring youth as history. No story is so entrancing. It can be made as wildly exciting as a novel. The nations who know their own history are the ones whose patriotism stand the stress of evil times.

A list of dates will not hold a shaking people together.

THE LISTENING POST

With respect to the misbehavior of the elements on the day of the eclipse, there is little to be said.

The elements are beyond us.

There is nothing to be gained by berating them.

We have the weather with us always. It may not be the kind of weather we like.

But there it is. And we have to take it. We cannot even take it or leave it, as we may with many things. We have to take it.

So we might as well take it gracefully.

It saves wear and tear on the nervous system.

Even the eminent astronomers and scientists who found their hopes dashed by a mist and fog, took the situation gracefully.

Disappointed they were, of course. But being men of intelligence they realize that there is no use in crying over milk that has been spilt.

Or an eclipse that has fizzled.

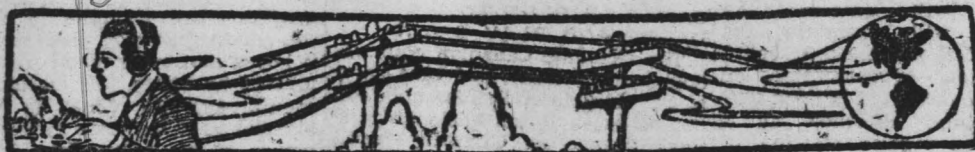

The regrettable part of the fizzle is that total eclipses do not often occur.

There is not much consolation to scientists in reflecting upon the next total eclipse a hundred years hence.

Because they will not be here to observe it. Or have any part in it.

Men who have through years of study and research fitted themselves to study an eclipse intelligently must of necessity feel chagrined when the object of their possible study disappears in a bank of fog.

Especially in a region where there is much sunshine.

Songs of the Poets

To a Skylark—By William Wordsworth (1770-1850)

Ethereal minstrel! pilgrim of the sky!
Dost thou despise the earth where cares abound?
Or, while the wings aspire, are heart and eye
Both with thy nest upon the dewy ground?
Thy nest which thou canst drop into at will,
Those quivering wings composed, that music still!

To the last point of vision, and beyond,
Mount, daring warbler!—that love-prompted strain.
—Twixt thee and thine, a never-failing bond—

Thrills not the less the bosom of the plain:
Yet might'st thou seem proud privilege! to sing
All independent of the leafy spring.

Leave to the nightingale her shady wood;
A privacy of glorious light is thine.
Whence thou dost pour upon the world a flood
Of harmony, with instinct more divine:
Type of the wise, who soar, but never roam—
True to the kindred points of Heaven and Home!

MY FRIENDS IN THE COUNTRY

By DR. FRANK CRANE

BACK in the city after my vacation, I sit in my study and think of my friends in the country.

Trees. One long tree in a meadow, a giant cottonwood, with crows under it. Massed trees in the forest at a distance. Armies of trees swarming up the mountain side. A procession of trees along the roadside.

The Brook, happiest, play-fullest, brightest of all Nature's children. The Water-fall. I can close my eyes now and see its silver surface, its mounting spray, its flashing jewels, and hear its thunderous note.

The Cliff, standing out grimly, sturdily, everlastingly defying the waters.

The Field. The waving surface of golden grain, the sweep of meadow and upland.

The Sea. For days I floated on a ship, a little speck lost in the immensity of sky and water. The infinity of it haunts my mind.

Greenness. Acres, miles, iciness of the sun and sky and ocean.

The Path, zig-zagging across the heath as deviously as life itself.

Roads. Not streets. Roads, roads, climbing up mountain sides, roads stretching across plains, roads arched by trees, bordered by weeds and brush-wood, roads straight, meandering, climbing hills, descending valleys, crossing bridges.

The River, eternally seeking the sea.

Boats, herds of cattle, droves of sheep, flocks of birds, heaps of stone, innumerable stars fretting the vast night.

Huge silences, not disturbed but accentuated, by the sound of crickets and frogs.

So I sit in my chair in my study and think of my Friends in the Country.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

THE NEW HELMSMAN

[New York Times]

The Ship of State has lost one captain but sails forward serenely under the command of another. It is saying only what everybody is saying to remark that the bearing of President Coolidge in these first critical days has greatly helped in reassuring and steadying public sentiment. His few utterances and all his acts have been conceived in a perfect sense of propriety. His proclamation in connection with the death of President Harding was unexceptional in taste and shot through with genuine and appropriate emotion. And the calm and quiet way in which the new President has set about the discharge of his official duties is precisely what the country would have desired to see in a man assuming the presidency under such tragic circumstances, and is full of good augury for the administration upon which President Coolidge is now setting out with the best wishes and the bright hopes of all Americans.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

An extraordinary character was the late Lieutenant Le Mesnager, decorated veteran of the world war. He had long been a resident of California, although French by birth. When France was fighting Prussia, this gallant citizen remembered the land of his early devotion. Crossing the ocean he joined the French army, and fought to the end.

With the coming of the world war Le Mesnager found himself an old man, as years are counted. But his spirit was young, his loyalty to early ideals as acute as ever. Although well past the seventy mark, at which even the brave are supposed to be entitled to rest on their laurels, once more he went to France to proffer his services. He was permitted to enlist as a private. He won glory at Verdun, and in other actions. He came out at the close of the war not only as a lieutenant, but with medals and crosses gleaming on his breast.

At the age of seventy-nine he has entered into rest, leaving a military record probably unique. He sleeps in his native land, as is fitting, and he was buried with the full honors due a patriot and hero.

The Union Pacific gave $25,000 for Japanese relief. Probably there was nothing in the by-laws authorizing such a gift. Probably, also, nobody cared, and the act had full approval.

In some cities where there was a desire to be similarly generous, protests acted in estoppel. Corporations, admittedly are without souls, but they beat municipalities in being able to rise above this handicap.

There seems to have been nothing in the most recent report of the death of Trotsky. The report will have to be regarded as the mere expression of a hope.

Another European crisis growing out of the fact that a Greek was charged with calling an Italian officer a macaroni-eater, has been averted, most happily.

Down at Bisbee an American in jocular mood pulled the hat of a Mexican over the wearer's eyes. The Mexican drew a pistol and shot. The offense was at once repeated, and the Mexican made good his word, the American dying as an immediate consequence.

The question for the coroner seems to be as to whether the case was one of suicide or murder.

With every batch of news from Europe comes the announcement that a new ultimatum has been delivered to Germany. Nothing in particular seems to come of it.

Perhaps there still abides a hope that some day diplomacy may devise an ultimatum that shall hit the spot.

Spanish labor unions threaten to walk out in case of aggressive military action against Morocco. This is not that they have regard for the welfare of Morocco. It means merely that Europeans who have to be on the firing line in case of war, are getting tired of the foolishness.

There is a rumor that an English prince is to marry an American. In all probability there is nothing in it. Still, it makes interestingly social gossip, this doubtless being the reason that the enterprising correspondent invented it.

Mr. Linnard, who keeps hotels wherever he thinks one is needed, says that the rush to California for the coming fall and winter is to be beyond all precedent. He has in mind the type of travelers who seek the shelter of his caravansaries.

While there is every evidence that Mr. Linnard is correct, there are thousands of other tourists who are coming to stay, and whose interest in hotel accommodations is purely incidental.

The public is informed that recognition of Mexico was due to the Hearst papers; another statement to be filed among things that might be important if true.

Due attention to verity causes the admission that the papers in question favored recognition, and that the fact of their doing so was a heavy handicap to success of the plan.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

GENTLY

Children, like the rest of us, do their work on a mysterious stream of power that we call energy. When it is flowing steadily, easily, the children swim along making fine progress. Dam it up, check it, and they make no progress. They are lost in dread and confusion. Too often we check it by our headlong rush to force the little ones to go ahead faster.

Watch a busy child and see how easily he moves and how gracefully he adjusts himself to the demands of the job. How serene the expression of his face and how happy his eyes. He is at ease. No tension shows itself in nerve or muscle. His energy is flowing free.

Some anxious grown-up goes to examine his work. He finds a mistake he calls out sharply and talks at the top of his voice. "Why, why!" "Too bad, too bad!" "Quick, quick!" Never again, never!

The child's body has grown tense, the graceful, sure-moving hands slip and blunder and become clumsy. The light of happiness leaves his eyes and trouble lurks in their depths. His energy has been checked, dammed up, and there will be no headway until it is released and flowing freely.

Children must be helped and guided. Criticism is food for their growth and as necessary as any other stimulant, but it must be given gently and impersonally with a light touch that will not jam on the weights and check the flowing energy.

Whenever it becomes your duty to look at the work of a child do a little bit of remembering. Hold still a second and recall the efforts you had to make to do a bit of new work, and how far from successful your efforts were. That will give you a bit of sympathy and appreciation of what is going on.

Then remember the person who talked to you about your job. Remember how his sharp word paralyzed your spirit; how you lost all sense and blundered aimlessly for a long time afterward. Remember how you thrilled at a word of praise and jumped forward to take the suggestion offered in gentle helpful tones. That will give you voice sympathy and understanding.

Then remember that teaching is setting free the spirit of a child; that you cannot, by taking thought, add one cubit to his stature, but by freeing him from ignorance and cheering him through your knowledge and faith and love, you help him to add to his own stature; to teach him.

The line of communication between teacher and taught is very light; entangible, a thing of spirit that rides on the flow of energy; a power of infinite mind. It will not bear shocks. Speak gently, move gently.

GREAT PAGEANT IS PROMISED CALIFORNIA

Will Feature Nation-wide Campaign of National Women's Party

If present plans are carried out of the National Women's party, it is altogether probable that Southern California will furnish the stage for a reproduction of the wonderful pageant which marked the celebration at Seneca Falls, New York, of the 75th anniversary of the first equal rights convention ever held in the world. It was witnessed by more than 10,000 enthusiastic spectators, and in connection with the celebration, a pilgrimage was made to the grave of Susan B. Anthony at Rochester, New York.

Miss Sara P. Grogan of Washington, D. C., who has been a prominent member of the party and who has been sojourning in Glendale for several months at 422 East Harvard, states that this pageant provided the inspiration for a nationwide campaign to be launched by the National Women's party, of which Mrs. Oliver P. Belmont is president, to bring about the adoption by congress of the federal amendment adopted at the Seneca Falls conference providing: "That men and women shall have equal rights throughout the United States and every place which is subject to its jurisdiction."

Miss Grogan was a speaker at a recent meeting of the Women's City club of Los Angeles.

As proof that men and women do not enjoy equal rights in all parts of the United States at present, Miss Grogan quotes Miss Alice Paul, vice-president of the Women's party who says in her appeal to western women to support this campaign: "In ten states today mothers have not equal rights with fathers in the guardianship of children, viz., Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Maryland, North Carolina, North Dakota, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Texas, and Virginia. This means generally that in case of any difference of opinion between parents, the husband has an enforceable legal right to decide the whole life and future of the child. In Ohio equality along this line was obtained only this year through the enactment into law of one of the Women's party bills.

"In three states the father still has the absolute right to will the custody of the children entirely away from the mother."

This is only a part of the message which will be enforced by the memorial pageant which aims to awaken public opinion to a realization of the fact that after 75 years of struggle for equality, women are still denied full equality along many lines as citizens of this republic, a condition which should be corrected.

To fire the opening gun in the campaign referred to, Alice Paul is now in Colorado Springs, Colo., arranging for the presentation of the memorial pageant in the Garden of the Gods in that city. It will not be an exact reproduction of the Seneca Falls spectacle because of the difference in the scenic character of the country and the need to localize the celebration.

The Colorado pageant will suggest the evolution of the equal rights idea in America and in connection will present a special tableau symbolizing the achievements of pioneer women of the west. In this tableau the most

SEE IT THROUGH

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

(Copyright, 1923, by The Associated Newspapers)

There are many people in this world to whom the principle of completeness is seemingly of no importance whatever.

Some, butterfly fashion, flit from undertaking to undertaking, beginning things with great enthusiasm but never finishing them. The new forever attracts them, yet once they have essayed it their eagerness wanes and they turn to something else.

Then there are those who ignore the principle of completeness because of their passion for haste.

Anything in which they engage must be done quickly if it is to be done at all. Difficulties in its execution cause uneasy feelings that lead either to an outright shirking of the engagement or to a doing of it that is doing in name only.

Still other folk are not obsessed by haste so much as by distaste for effort.

They do things incompletely because at heart they do not want to do them at all. So they readily persuade themselves that a minimum of exertion will suffice whatever the thing to be done. Incompleteness is an inevitable result.

And the incompleteness itself brings results anything but pleasant and sometimes fraught with the quality of disaster.

Again and again the newspapers report fatal accidents due to the failure of somebody—whether from butterfly-mindedness, haste, laziness or outright dishonesty—to do a piece of work completely.

Now it is an automobile that goes crashing over an embankment because of incomplete repair work by a garage man. Now it is a railway train wrecked by spreading rails that track workers would have detected had they not covered their section in haste.

With reason a latterday moralist has observed: "The history of the human race is full of the most horrible tragedies caused by carelessness and the inexcusable blunders of those who never formed the habit of doing things to a finish."

Even when disaster to others does not result from incompleteness, disaster of some sort to oneself is an all too likely result.

It may not be bodily disaster. It may be disaster of chronic unemployment, of the misery that comes with extreme poverty, of the bitter discontent associated with inability to get on in the world.

Unhappily, also, the real cause of the wretchedness felt is seldom appreciated. Rather there is a pretty general tendency to try to place the blame for it on external circumstances.

"The trouble is with the social system, it gives a poor man no chance," may be the cry. Or, "People treat me unfairly." Or, more simply, "My luck is bad."

Actually the fault is always within. Candid self-examination would speedily reveal this. And so commonly is the fault that of incompleteness, the world would soon be a brighter place for everybody if the devotees of incompleteness could one and all be persuaded to acknowledge their error and to adopt completeness as a guiding motive.

noted women pioneers of Arizona, Colorado, California, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah, Washington and Wyoming will be represented.

In its preparation for the pageant the Women's party is receiving the enthusiastic support of the entire community. The city council has voted $150 from its treasury, the chamber of commerce of Colorado Springs has named a committee of five of the most prominent men in the state to co-operate with the women's committee of fifty which includes all the leading women of the community. Denver will send a delegation of 300 women.

Governor Sweet of Colorado has issued a proclamation in the following terms:

"As this year marks the 75th anniversary of the first equal rights meeting ever held in the world, and as that historic gathering will be commemorated by women from all over the west at Colorado Springs Saturday and Sunday, September 22 and 23, and as it is fitting that event should live in the minds of the citizens of today, and as we desire to do special honor to those Colorado women who have pioneered in the work of equal rights for women, I do proclaim by authority vested in me as governor of Colorado, these days as days to be set aside by the citizens of our state to be observed in a manner appropriate to the great occasion to be celebrated. I am glad to appoint a committee of representative women to represent the state at the celebration in Colorado Springs."

"Lieutenant, how goes your campaign against the fair Miss Bullion's heart?" asked a civilian. "It's over," replied the officer; "she has surrendered. I went there last evening intending merely to make a demonstration. Finding less resistance than I expected, I moved forward and I soon had her surrounded. Owing to the superiority of my arms, she capitulated at once."

EARLY LIFE OF 'WAYFARER' AUTHOR

By HANNAH L. HUKILL, M. D.

There was no race suicide in the family of poor factory workers in England where Rev. James E. Crowther was born. There were eleven children and the father worked in the cotton mills, early and late, to support them. "Once," said this inspired author of this great American passion play, as he related incidents of his early life, citing how they now fitted in the beautiful Christ story he has earned the privilege to give the world. "My father spent the magnificent sum of $10 for an old organ. It was a wheezy old instrument and the pedals did not work well, but as we gathered about it, 13 of us, we made quite an orchestra," he said, continuing he said: "I was brought up on the Messiah and as a growing boy was familiar with all its parts."

As a child of nine he, too, was put to work in the factory and the terrible grind of long hours, at that early age, grated on his very soul. He had great aspirations for helping the world, of bettering conditions of the workers, and he saw them bending under the form of their toil. "Sometimes," he said, "I grew so tired that I would throw myself across the machine on which I was working and wonder, think, hope and pray for a time when I could better conditions for the world." His face glowed with emotion as he exclaimed, "Oh, 'The Wayfarer' has been a long while in preparation, and many of the things I saw as a child in the cotton mills have been produced in the scenery of this great pageant."

He builded his vision into form in a most wonderful way through his unselfish ideal to be of service to the race and now he is broadcasting Christ's message of Brotherhood to the world. His dramatization of the Messiah was not a sudden one night inspiration, as "The Wayfarer" is said to be, but a product smoldering in his soul since he was a boy in the cotton mills of England.

POSSIBLE INCOME CITY SCHOOLS FOR 1923-24

The following interesting statistics relative to the possible income of city schools for 1923-24 have been received from the office of County Superintendent Keppel. The letter follows:

"The amount of $31,453,715 is the assessed valuation of the Glendale school district of Los Angeles county, California, for 1923-24. That district's estimated total possible income from taxes for 1923-24 is as stated below:

"Salary fund $173,102
"County common school fund 51,097
"County high school special fund 81,779
"Special fund 47,180
"Building fund 2,691
"Library fund 44,035
"Kindergarten fund 44,035
"The above estimates do not include the balance belonging to the district on July 1, 1923. Those balances are in addition to the amounts estimated above.

"The library fund will be transferred to the county free library if your district belongs to it.

"The district's income from taxes cannot and will not exceed the estimates given above no matter what the budget calls for."

RAGPICKER HAS LARGE FAMILY

[By Associated Press]

BAY CITY, Mich., Sept. 14.—Father of 33 children, the oldest of whom is 67 years old and the youngest a babe of 14 months, is the claim to distinction of Charles L. Lucius, a rag picker who is a descendant of two Dutch generals, and successively a rancher, a guerrilla fighter, Indian fighter and member of both the rebel and union armies during the civil war.

Of the 33 children who have called Lucius father, the list includes four sets of twins, one set by his present, or fourth wife, and the others by a second wife.

Lucius bears his 91 years lightly. He can do the accepted "daily dozen" exercises while the average person is making up his mind to start. With ease he can rap his knuckles on the floor without bending at the knees.

Two young men who had been chums at college went abroad together. One of them conscientiously wanted to visit every spot mentioned in the guide book; the other was equally as conscientious about having a hilarious time. This naturally led to disagreements. In the course of one of these the lover of pleasure said, tauntingly: "Perhaps you are doing these places so thoroughly because you are going to write a book about your trip."

"I should," replied the other, promptly. "If Robert Louis Stevenson hadn't made use of the title I want to use."

"What's that?"

LOST AND FOUND

By JOHN BRECK

An automobile camper's vacation seems bound to be a high-tension affair. No matter how carefully you plan for it you always miss some vital triviality, like the can-opener or the tire-pump. But an inventory can't save you. Your wits won't work; you're in too big a hurry to get as far as ever you can from the world of every day. Off you dash, in blissful ignorance of your predicament—until the crucial moment arrives.

Your return trip is just as flurried. What you've lost by now is a day. You wake with a start—this isn't Saturday! Here you are some 300 miles from home and due there not later than tomorrow morning! Then follows the process known as "burning up the highway" in and out and around the jam of cars doing the "Sunday crawl."

Twenty miles an hour! That'll never do. Why, rats are easier dodged than traffic. There's a short cut, too, over the dirt road. You take it, forgetting the gasoline axiom, "A pavement is the shortest time between the points." Then it's all up with you. For every little byway has a trouble all its own or you'd find other folks using it. Once you leave the traffic signs and those big, brotherly placards, which direct you to the nice dollar-a-day hotel, and the place you can buy pants which wear like a pig's nose, the fates seem just as much against you as if you'd left the plain, straight paths of virtue.

At least that's what I thought as I plunged on through the dark. By the time I owned it was myself I had now misplaced, the countryside was asleep. And by the time I screwed up my courage to wake some one, there was no one to wake. I tried steering by the north star, but the faint trail dodged it too consistently, so I picked out a conspicuous wooded peak. Having attained it, by some miracle, I shut off my gas, grabbed for a blanket, flopped over in my seat and dozed off.

"Gwan you fool!" The words, mysteriously subdued, brought me up with a jerk which set the wheels of a four-horse team, just sneaking by me in the dawn, to jingling his harness. The Bret Harte character at the reins threw on his brake as I shouted, "Where am I?"

"Redwood," he grinned, then amended, "Top of the ridge."

"Red—" My eyes popped wide. Why, this was a place all but lost to local legend! An old lumber center, it had rivalled San Francisco itself back before the gold rush. It was denuded to build up that city before the fire. Then its dwellers, their occupation gone, moved into the valley and went to farming. The forest now standing was sprung from the eight and 10-foot stumps of monarch fells 70 years ago. With an explanatory thumb he rebuilt it for my imagination—streets, postoffice, stores, saloon—all gone. And over there, between a fold of two low hills, I could see the roofs of home, not ten miles away as the crow flies. Ten miles from the world of every day, but—seventy years! 'Twas the farthest point of all my traveling.

FIESTA DU LAGUNA DONS OF PERALTA OAKLAND, CALIF.

OAKLAND, Sept. 14.—"Obapela!" The official greeting of the Dons of Peralta, sponsors for the first annual East Bay festival, to be known this year as the Fiesta de la Laguna, has been flung to the four corners of California and the west.

The word means much. It is not Spanish. It is not Indian. It is typical of the spirit of the Dons the Dons stand for—friendliness, comradeship, cooperation, welcome! It comes from the first letters in the names of the 7 East Bay cities, comprising the domain of the Dons—Oakland, Berkeley, Alameda, Piedmont, Emeryville, San Leandro, Albany. Obapela! And so, when the visiting thousands arrive in Oakland and the East Bay during the festival week, September 24-29 inclusive, they will hear the word "Obapela" and they will know they are welcome, say the Dons of Peralta.

The fiesta itself will unfold the story of California on the water. It will present the wealth of East Bay industries on display at the third annual East Bay Manufacturers' exposition. It will offer a week of play to which all the world is invited by the Dons of Peralta. All roads, during the week of September 24-29 inclusive, will lead to the Land of Obapela.

The Mardi Gras, the Velled Prophet, the Ak-Sar-Ben celebrations have been rolled into one by the Dons of Peralta. Life and laughter, color and hospitality, is offered the visitors to the East Bay during festival week.

PERMIT SECURED CHURCH ADDITION

A permit has been taken out by Thomas & Betz for a $2000 frame addition to the First church of Christ Scientist at Maryland and California. It is designed to provide increased Sunday school accommodations and will extend south and east of the present structure. Work upon it will begin at once.

SOUTHERN BRANCH TANBARK SQUAD OUTLOOK IS PROMISING STARTS TO WORK ON SCRIMMAGE

Few Players Will Be Missing; to Meet the Alumni Sept. 22

With few of the stars of last year absent when the opening whistle blows, the University of California, Southern Branch, is anticipating a wonderful football season. Not more than five or six of the Bruin team which last year upset the conference dope will be missing when practice starts next week. The addition of the junior year regents of the university brings back many players who were or a time thought lost to the Southern Branch. Many who had finished their sophomore year and had intended to transfer to other colleges have decided to return to the Bruin institution with the addition of the junior year. However, because three classes are now fully established at the Branch, the Southern California conference has evoked the permit authorizing the playing of freshmen on the Bruin varsity. It is not expected that his will prove much of a handicap for there is much seasoned material on hand among the sophomores and juniors, while the frosh will receive training in the game at the hands of the well-known Harry Trotter, who, up until this year, has been coach of the Bruin varsity squad.

With Jimmy Cline as head coach, assisted by Bob Berkeley and Charley Toomey, an all-Californian coaching staff will pilot the Bruins. Eight Bell, U. S. Army captain, who coached the line last fall, will help Trotter with the line play.

It is expected that among those who will return will be Cap Harlan, Horace Breese, Ralph Diehl, George Timmons, Ralph Plummer, Eddie Knudson and numerous of the luminaries of the 1927 team. The loss of Gordon White, who has left to join the Golden Bears at Berkeley, will be severely felt.

On September 22 the Bruins will have their first battle when they will meet the alumni of the institution. Before the conference starts they will take on La Verne, Ayala and San Diego Junior colleges.

THE BIG FIGHT

Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the world, will defend his crown tonight against Luis Angel Firpo, Argentine challenger. The biggest crowd that ever witnessed a fight will be present at the match. All records were broken on advance seat sales, almost selling out the entire arena in advance. By this time the Polo Grounds must already be filling with fans, eager to watch the battle for the crown. On the very eve of the struggle, both fighters declare they will win. Dempsey is pronounced to be in perfect condition. His trainers say that he has never been in better shape for a fight, although some of the critics think he is over the hill. Firpo, enthusiastic and nervous, is reported to be like a lion in a cage, waiting for the big fight. Experts have ridiculed his method of training, and although he is in perfect physical condition, he is of the opinion that he has not gained in the systematic manner that the champion has, and for this reason he will be at a disadvantage when the two meet. As this is being read, the big bout will be in hour or so away. So here goes on the great title battle, and may the best man win.

AN ACTIVE SEASON IN FIGHTING

Tonight's bout will be the second time in two months that the champion has fought to defend his crown. That Dempsey is having to work to keep his laurels is to the credit of the promoters and to the best interests of the game. For a champion to sit back month after month, perhaps a year or so, without a battle, and without attempting to stage one, at times dodging every chance to defend the title, is detrimental to fighting. The people like a champion who fights every time he gets a chance, and who does not have to spend days calculating the financial benefits he will reap before he signs for a bout. John L. Sullivan and Jim Corbett were examples of the kind

IS HE A MAN OF DESTINY?

Every once in a blue moon—green one if you prefer—comes along an individual with a chronic habit of unusual success in some line of endeavor. "A Man of Destiny!" So they often say. Firpo has been mentioned. What do you think?

Do you think him destined to whip Dempsey? Some folks do! At least you must admit his unusual and remarkable success. It is almost uncanny. It was only a little more than a year ago that this big scowling man came up from the Argentine—unschooled and unknown. Since then—well,

ANGELS WALLOP BASEBALL SIWASHES IN TWIN BALL

Vernon Drops to Sacs, Seals Again Beat Ducks, Bees Sting Oaks

Los Angeles copped a pair of ball games from Seattle yesterday, 4 to 3, and 9 to 4. The first pastime was won after 11 innings of more or less perfect baseball, in which no less a person than the great "Wheeler" Dell was given a licking on the mound. But it took two extra innings, and two Angel pitchers to accomplish the feat. The Sacs got off to a good start in the fourth inning of the first game, when Rohrer knocked a homer into the right field bleachers with two on bases. This was as far as the Siwash got in scoring during the game.

Art Griggs, first sacker for the Seagulls, knotted a batter, and the Angels began to recover, evening the score in the fourth inning. Lefty Thomas had relieved Wallace at the mound. In the eleventh the Los Angeles crew put over the winning run.

A classy pitching duel between Doc Crandall and Elmer Jacobs was slated for the second affair, but an error and three hits in the third forced Red Killifer to recall Jacobs and put Burger on the mound. Five runs in the third and four in the seventh gave the Angels the game. The scores:

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 14.—Bunching hits off Tiner during five of the seven periods in which he worked, Sacramento scored a third straight triumph for the series over Vernon today by figures of 9 to 2. In the meantime, Bill Prough was holding almost complete mastery over the Tigers, blanking them in all except the sixth, when four safe blows sent a pair of runs over the plate with two gone. The Solons collected for two triples and five doubles off Bill Essick's rookie slabster. The score:

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 14.—The Seals took an easy victory from Portland today, 6 to 0. It was San Francisco's ninth straight win. McWeeny's fast ball stood him in good stead by reason of a dark, cloudy day, and he allowed the Seagulls only six hits, most of which came in the same inning. Portland has only scored one run in the three games thus far played. The score:

Portland.....0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0
Base hits.....1 1 0 1 1 0 1 0 1 6
San Francisco.....0 0 0 1 1 0 2 2 0 6

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 14.—Oakland evened up the series by defeating Salt Lake in a hard-hitting game today, 1 to 1. Eight home runs were included in the hits, four for each side. Leslie, for Salt Lake and Lafayette for Oakland, each made two four-basers. The score:

Oakland.....3 4 0 2 3 0 2 0 1 16
Base hits.....3 5 0 2 4 0 3 0 12

to extend the privileges of "time out."

Rule XV, section 5, has been reworded in order to make clear the rights of both sides when more than one player signals for a fair catch, and the same is true of rule XVI, section 3 (b), relating to fouls on a forward pass.

In rule XVII, sections 1 and 3, the word "hand" has been inserted with a view to making clear the fact that a ball handed to a player ahead of the holder is a forward pass. It is also made clear that the penalty for an illegal forward pass may be declined, but that the penalty for an incomplete forward pass may not be declined.

In rule XVIII, an important alteration has been made which eliminates the last vestige of the "on-side" kick. No player of the kicker's side, even if he was behind the kicker, may recover the ball until it touches an opponent except in case the ball did not cross the scrimmage line.

In rule XXI, section 2, the place from which the penalty is inflicted is the spot of the down, while roughing a forward passer inflicts the penalty from the spot of the foul, and clipping gives the privilege to the offended side of electing whether the penalty shall be measured from the spot of the down or of the foul.

In rule XXIII, section 11, the wording is made clear as to the infliction of penalties for fouls occurring after touchdown, touch-back or safety.

WILLS TO FIGHT DEMPSEY OR FIRPO

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—No bier bouquets need be prepared for the battler who ends on his back when Jack Dempsey and Luis Firpo meet tonight at the Polo Grounds.

They are both primarily business men and their future trade will not be spoiled by a tap on the chin.

Dempsey, as an ex-champion, can fight offener in a year and make more money than he did as the champion. He would be relieved of many of the responsibilities, worries and revenue drains that attend the holding of the title.

Firpo, as the defeated challenger, will be an attractive card as long as he wants to remain in the United States and pursue pugilism as a trade.

Dempsey has said that as soon as he is beaten he is going to retire from the ring, but it is doubtful that he will ever cut himself away from such a profitable business as long as he is able to maintain his position as a good card.

Firpo, as the new champion, of course, would have a million dollars or more extended to him for the mere picking. With all his color, his unusual temperament and the romance around his career he perhaps would make the title worth even more than Dempsey got out of it, and Dempsey made modern fighting worth the big money that it is.

Win or lose, Firpo is matched to fight Harry Wills in South America next April. If he loses, however, it is possible that Tex Rickard will not care to promote the match. If he wins, he will fight

GUS THE GLOOMY TAKES CHARGE TOMORROW

Crepe-hanging Mentor Returns From Vacation, Trojans Still at Work

"Gloomy Gus" Henderson takes charge of his Trojan warriors tomorrow. For four days the University of Southern California footballers have been working out minus the well beloved crepe-hanging coach. Chet Dolley, captain of the eleven for the ensuing season, has been in charge.

The Trojan tanbark artists have been working out in fairly good shape. Some of them have been patting themselves on the back in such a manner as to nearly break their arms, congratulating themselves on their work. The reason for these antics is that they know that when Elmer Henderson arrives they will not feel like they need anything of the sort. If there is anything that Henderson likes to do better than tell newspaper reporters what a rotten team he has, it is to tell his men what dummies they are at the tanbark pastime.

Two weeks after the coach takes hold, the Trojans will take on the Caltek Engineers in the first practice tilt of the season. They are expecting to have an easy time of it, but the Engineers are considered mighty fast this year, and are counted on to be in the running strong for the Southern California conference bacon.

Whether the Trojan pigskinners will be able to beat the Golden Bears when they come south November 10 is a question. Many a loyal U. S. C. student and alumnus, and many a well trained football fan answers in the affirmative. Gloomy Gus, of course, will probably deny the possibility of such an occurrence. The Trojans are strong, but whether they can defeat the California team is difficult to say.

MIDGET FOOTBALL TEAM IMPROVING

Following the termination of the second day of practice, Coach Butterfield expressed himself as being pleased with the manner in which the Glendale High lightweight football squad is coming along. Scrimmage work, with continued practice at tackling, occupied most of the afternoon.

The few veterans who are back have been conducting themselves in such a manner as to inspire confidence in the numerous aspirants for the midget team.

There is plenty of new material on hand. The only trouble with these new fellows is that they have had no experience, and will have to be taught the game from the ground up. Several likely players have put in an appearance. Altogether, the outlook for the lightweight team, while not as rosy as it could be, is not so cloudy as earlier reports would seem to indicate.

Wills in the United States—not in South America.

In signing Firpo to a contract to fight Wills, Rickard merely acted upon the foresight that has made him the greatest of all promoters. He was first to see the possibilities in Firpo and he does not want to take any chance on losing him in the future.

Regardless of who wins, Harry Wills will get the next chance at the championship. To get Firpo, all he has to do is to sign a contract with Rickard, and the fight will need nothing but the selection of a place and a date. Perhaps New York would be the scene as the perplexing color angle would not be so ticklish as it has been in making a match between a colored fighter and a white native of the United States.

DISTRICT NO. 4 OPEN FOR DEER HUNTING SUNDAY

Last of the California Districts to Be Thrown Open

The last of the hunting districts of California, No. 4, will be thrown open for deer hunting next Sunday morning. This district takes in Los Angeles county and other Southern California sections and is the one district, looked forward to each year by local sportsmen. As with the dove season, which opened the first of this month, literally hundreds of Angeleno deer stalkers will be out on the opening day. Deer hunting in this district can be carried on within a few miles of Los Angeles proper and from all reports the best-footed game will be plentiful.

Ever ready to stimulate interest in the great outdoors, and its pastimes, especially hunting, the B. H. Dyas company offers for competition two Savage rifles of the latest sporting type, for the hunters who kill the two largest deer during the season of September 16 to October 15, inclusive, not necessarily, however, in district four.

The bucks must be weighed in, dressed, at the Dyas log cabin, the weight registered with either Paul Wolf, Peter Peterson or Frank Workway. The registration will be witnessed and at the end of the season the weights will be gone over and the shooters with the most pounds of deer will be awarded the firearms.

The rifles are the very latest in sporting models. They are light, take down and hammerless and a pleasant gun to handle. They are trophies that no doubt many local deer hunters will compete for. However, he shooter must always remember that two bucks a season is the limit and that all hunters must have a license. As for the good shooting locations, Peter Peterson, the hunting expert of the Dyas company, gives out the following, which should be good bets:

The Santa Monica Mountain range, outskirts of San Bernardino around San Jacinto, Oak Flat region, White Mountains and south of Acton.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—The New York Americans easily defeated the White Sox in the third game of the series here today, 9 to 6. The Yankees started off with an eight-run lead in the first two rounds, knocking out Blankenship in the second. Ruth hit his thirty-sixth home run of the season off Blankenship in the first inning, leaving him one behind Williams of the Philadelphia Nationals.

FEW RULE CHANGES FOR FOOTBALL THIS YEAR

Elimination of "On-Side" Kick Is Only Important Alteration

Few changes have been made in the football rules for the coming year. Minor changes in words, effected to make the meaning of certain sections clearer, constitute the majority of the changes. The most important alteration eliminates the last vestige of the on-side kick. No player on the kicker's side, even if he was behind the kicker, may recover the ball until it touches an opponent, except in case the ball did not cross the scrimmage line.

The changes, as outlined by the National Collegiate Athletic committee, are as follows:

In rule III, section 2, which relates to substitution, there has been a slight expansion in the wording for the purpose of making the intent of the rule less likely to misinterpretation, and the same is true in section 3.

In rule IV, section 1, a paragraph has been added that provides a penalty against the team which deliberately delays the start of a game. The wording of section 4 has been altered in order to make it clear that after a fair catch made at the expiration of a period, the kick is allowed and also the subsequent play resulting from that kick, until the ball is declared dead by the referee; and also that the try-for-point is allowed if the touchdown is made just as time has expired.

In rule VI, section 1, has been made a little clearer, and the same is true of section 12 (d) of the same rule and of section 16 (b), second paragraph, relating to safety.

In rule VII, section 2, relating to a kick-off crossing the goal line and then going out of bounds, the approved ruling that the ball is still in play and a touchdown possible, has been incorporated; subject, of course, to the approved ground rules.

In rule IX, section 1, third paragraph, the position of players on and behind the line of scrimmage has been more thoroughly amplified in the interest of officials, and the same is true in section 5 of the same rule relating to players' motion.

Changes in wording have been made in rule X (a), (b) and (c), neither of which, however, alters the accepted understanding of the play.

In rule XIV, section 1, has been slightly altered in order to make clear that neither side may attempt

GAME BETWEEN TWO CHURCHES IS POSTPONED

At the request of the Christian church, their scheduled game with the Methodists, which was to have been played last night, has been postponed. The Christians have not been able to assemble since the vacation, but will be back in the field by next week. The Post-office brigade and the Fords are now tied for leadership, each having won four games. Neither have suffered a defeat as yet.

The Postoffice team will hook up tonight on the high school grounds. If the mailmen are able to defeat the oil squad, the will grab the leadership in the race. Community Service Director Tucker will umpire the game.

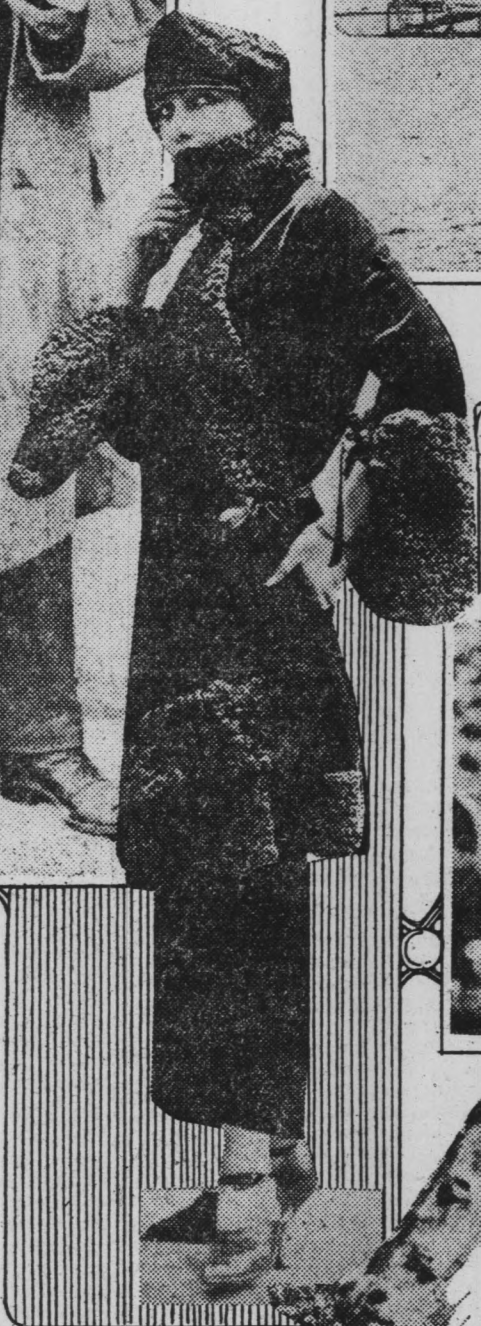

COLLEGIATE FOOTBALL IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

In less than a week, all of the Southern California colleges will have opened football practice. A most successful season is predicted for football in these parts. The Southern California conference, composed of Pomona, Redlands, Whittier, Southern Branch, Caltek and Occidental, will begin play the middle of October. That the conference race will be a hot one is indicated by the pre-season comparison of the teams. Occidental, Caltek and Southern Branch are all strong. Pomona, last year's champion, will be handicapped by loss of numerous stars, but will put up a hot fight. Redlands and Whittier appear to be weak, and they may stage a big surprise. Then there is the University of Southern California, entered in the Pacific Coast conference. "Gloomy Gus" Henderson, coach of the Trojans, seems to have a crackjack of a team, in spite of his crepe-hanging tendencies. The U. S. C. team plays the Golden Bears of Berkeley here on November 10, and should furnish a real scrap. On the whole, it looks like a promising year for football in the Southland.

LEGION NEWS

For God and Country, we associate ourselves together for the following purposes: To uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States of America; to maintain law and order; to foster and perpetuate a one hundred per cent Americanism; to preserve the memories and incidents of our association in the Great War; to inculcate a sense of individual obligation to the community, state and nation; to combat the autocracy of both the classes and the masses; to make right the master of might; to promote peace and good will on earth; to safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of justice, freedom and democracy; to consecrate and sanctify our comradeship by our devotion to mutual helpfulness. Preamble to the Constitution of the American Legion.

Captain Walter Brinkop of Los Angeles, formerly machine gun officer of the 364th Infantry, 91st Division, and president of the 91st Division Association of Southern California, has announced plans for a monster get-together reunion of all the Wild West Division men who reside in Southern California.

Meeting at the Athletic Club in Los Angeles on the evening of the 26th of September, the anniversary of the "jump-off" in the Argonne offensive which resulted in the routing of the German armies, the boys of the famous 91st Division will gather around the banquet table and renew old friendships and fight the war over again.

In announcing the reunion Brinkop said:

"The 91st Division was the only California outfit to really get into the thickest part of the fighting during the late war as a unit. The men from Southern California covered themselves with glory and added lustre to the fame of the Golden State. This reunion is an annual affair and each year we meet to talk over old times and to plan wherein we can be of continued service to the country. This year we have arranged a most entertaining program. In addition to a wonderful banquet there will be a fight card hard to equal, and entertainers of nation-wide repute who have offered their services to show the men their appreciation for the service they rendered. Those who wish to attend should send in their names to Cliff Hughes at 416 A. G. Bartlett building, Los Angeles, as the accommodations are limited and it's a case of first come first served.

"We always hold our reunions on the 26th of September because on that day began the great battle of the Argonne in which the 91st Division held the center of the line and forced the German armies back farther than at any point on the American front. It is a date we all will always remember."

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 14.—Scores of aviators and aeronauts, both military and civil, are expected in San Francisco for the fifth annual convention of the American Legion, October 15 to 19, because of the many air events of importance which have been scheduled. Special provision will be made for the reception and entertainment of the flier-guests, and many planes are expected to remain in the city during the convention.

Chief among air attractions will be the annual American Legion air derby, participated in by well-known fliers, and an international glider contest for motorless planes. "Sky-writing," pyrotechnical displays, night sham battles in the air, and other "stunts" will make up an unusual and almost continuous program for the Legion guests. Cooperation of officials in charge of naval, army and mail planes has done much to broaden the scope of the program.

The glider contest, which is expected to create considerable interest among the inventors of motorless planes, is made more interesting by the announcement of a $5,000 award by Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, American flying "ace," and nationally known sportsman. Other trophies in this competition will be announced later. Entries of many Europeans are expected because of the principal prizes.

Crissey field, an excellent landing and "take-off" place for planes, on one of the great military reservations near San Francisco, will be the center of the air events. Here, squadrons of the army, navy and mail flying forces will gather as well as planes of all visitors during their stay in the city.

Many a man who joins in the avii chorus would be ashamed to play second fiddle.

Be Sure Your Jellies Will "Jell"

The U. S. Department of Agriculture Tells the Secret of Pectin and How to Make It at Home

Government Experts Whose Jellies Never Fail

To the left is Miss Minna C. Denton, one of the authors of the Department of Agriculture's booklet on pectin. The lady to the right is Mrs. E. Haines, one of her assistants.

Why is it that some fruits make such good jellies while others simply refuse to "jell"? And why, furthermore, does a fruit "jell" splendidly at one time and show little inclination to do so at another? Of course, a syrup in order to jelly must contain sugar — it wouldn't be a syrup without that. And it must have acid—and experienced housewives provide this, where it is lacking in the natural fruit, by adding lemon juice.

But scientific research has brought to light the fact that a third ingredient is necessary—pectin. Pectin is really the active constituent that makes a syrup "jell." It is allied to the vegetable gums. If a fruit jellies well it is a certain sign it contains pectin. If it refuses to do so, it probably lacks this substance.

What Fruits Need Pectin

The United States Department of Agriculture has prepared a bulletin on the proper methods of making pectin and its uses, and any housewife who desires more information on this subject may obtain the complete bulletin by writing to the Department in Washington and asking for Department Circular 254. The advantages of using pectin, as described in this bulletin, are that the results are rendered more certain, that pectin makes it possible to jelly fruits that could not otherwise be used, that less heating is necessary—which means that the jelly will be better, for extra heating not only is likely to change the color and flavor of the juice but reduces the yield by boiling the juice down.

Attractive jellies are thus obtained by the use of pectin extracts with such materials as strawberries, rhubarb, ripe red and black raspberries, fresh or canned pineapples, peaches and cherries, and the yield of jelly is equal to that obtained from fruit of the best jellifying quality. The government warns, however, that pectin extracts should not be used to conceal the inferiority of watered juices.

Pectin may be made of either apples or the white peel (either fresh or dried) of citrus fruits such as oranges and lemons. If apples are used they can be the cheaper kind, which, because of surface blemishes, do not bring the highest prices, but it is impossible to make pectin of mealy, non-acid or overripe fruit.

To Make Apple Pectin

According to the instructions issued by the Government department, the apples should be cleaned by thorough scrubbing and stems and imperfect spots should be removed, though the apples need not be cored or pared. A convenient quantity to use is four pounds of apples to four and a half pints of water. Slice the apples thin and place them in an enameled ware saucepan. The government's instructions call for enameled ware (or granite), probably because it will not discolor the pectin nor be injured by the acid in the fruit. The saucepan should be large enough so that the whole mass can be brought quickly to the boiling point. Cover the pan and boil the mixture rapidly for twenty minutes. Then strain the mass through four thicknesses of cheesecloth until the juice ceases to drip. Lightly press with a spoon to force out the drops of the juice.

Now remove the pulp from the bag, weigh or measure it and add an equal amount of water. Boil again for twenty minutes and strain. The first two extractions should amount together to about three quarts. Mix them in a wide enameled ware pan, such as a dish pan, large enough so the liquid will not be more than two inches deep. Heat rapidly until the liquid is reduced to one-fourth of its original volume, or to about a pint and a half—this usually requires from thirty to forty-five minutes.

The concentrated juice is a thick, syrupy liquid which usually has a strong apple flavor; its color varies from dark to light reddish brown, according to the kind of apples used, the color of their skins, and the promptness with which the material has been handled. When cold there is a heavy sediment which contains considerable pectin.

If you desire to preserve the pectin extract for use with fruits which come at another season, it should be poured while boiling hot into clean jars or bottles which have been standing in boiling water, and these containers should be sealed at once. If large amounts of jelly are to be made at one time the pectin extract may, of course, be stored in jars of any convenient size. Otherwise, small bottles holding about half a cupful are recommended in order to do away with the necessity of reheating the extract or reprecipitating a jar to prevent spoilage each time a part of the contents is removed.

Making Citrus Pectin

Pectin extract may also be made from citrus fruits, preferably thick-skinned oranges and lemons. The fruit should be washed and wiped dry and the outer yellow rind should be pared off carefully, using a silver or glass knife or a steel blade that does not stain. Next cut off the white peel in as large pieces as possible, making sure that none of the fruit adheres to it. If as much as one-half pound of peel is collected at one time the extraction of the pectin may be begun at once. If, however, the peel is collected from time to time in smaller amounts it can be dried and kept until there is sufficient to make it practical to extract the pectin. In this case a somewhat different method is followed.

In making pectin from fresh peel use two quarts of water to one pound of fresh white peel. The government's instructions are to put the peel through a meat grinder, using the coarse blade, and then place it in an enameled ware (granite) saucepan large enough to permit rapid boiling. Cover the peel with the water and allow it to stand for one or two hours. Just before beginning to heat measure the depth of the material in the pan. This may be done by standing a silver knife or spoon handle upright in it and noting this depth in inches. Boil rapidly until the volume is reduced to a little less than one-half of the original, measuring the depth as before. Strain through four thicknesses of cheesecloth and allow to stand until dripping is complete. The dripping may be hastened by pressing the mass lightly with a spoon.

Two more extractions are made in the same way, adding two quarts of water to the peel each time. It is not necessary, however, to allow the peel and water to stand for an hour before heating. Mix the three extractions together; the total should be about 2½ pints. Lemon extract made this way is sufficiently concentrated for use, but better results are obtained with the orange pectin if the combined extracts are concentrated by boiling until the yield is reduced to two pints. Stir the liquid to prevent scorching.

This citrus-pectin can be stored in the same way as apple-pectin extract but it does not always keep so well. Accordingly, if it is to be stored for a month or longer the sealed bottles, if of small size, should be put in boiling water for twenty minutes or, if of large size, they should be kept in the water for thirty minutes. Pectin extracts should always be shaken before using.

Good Pectin Recipes

Besides its use in making jellies pectin can be employed in making frozen desserts. For instance, a delicious sherbet can be made by combining one cup of rich, tart apple pectin, a cup of sugar, a cup of milk, a cup of cream, a few grains of salt and from a teaspoon to a tablespoon of lemon juice, if desired. Freeze by the usual methods employed for making ice cream.

To illustrate the way in which pectin is employed in jelly-making here are some typical recipes the government suggests. Others with directions for making pectin from the dried peel of citrus fruits, are given in the government bulletin already referred to.

Fresh Pineapple Jelly with Added Pectin

1 cup ripe pineapple juice, 5 tablespoons lemon-pectin extract, 1 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon lemon juice. Cut (do not grind) fresh, ripe pineapple into small pieces as possible, place in an enameled ware (granite) pan and add one-half cup of water to each cup of fruit. Cook until the pineapple begins to soften, then strain through four thicknesses of cheesecloth, using gentle pressure with a spoon.

To each cup of juice add one cup of sugar, and the lemon pectin and lemon juice as indicated above. Boil until the jelly test appears. Skim, if necessary.

Cherry Jelly with Added Pectin

1 cup cherry juice, 1 cup of sugar, 5 tablespoons of apple-pectin extract or 6 tablespoons of orange-pectin.

To prepare the juice thoroughly wash the cherries and remove the stems and pits. Place in a saucepan, adding one-fourth cup of water for each pound of fruit. Heat to boiling point and boil ten minutes. Strain through four thicknesses of cheesecloth. Mix the juice with the remaining ingredients in the proportions indicated and cook until the jelly test is reached.

The best jelly is made from rather sour cherries of high flavor. It is clear and has a red color, and, because of its tartness, is especially suitable for serving with meat.

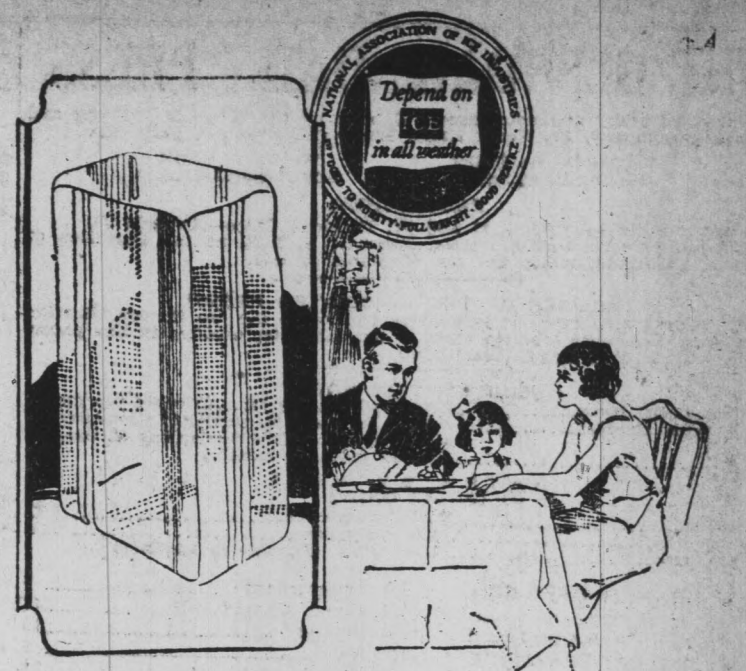

Rhubarb Jelly with Added Pectin

6 tablespoons lemon-pectin extract, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup rhubarb juice, 2 teaspoons lemon juice.

The jelly is best when made from very young, tender and succulent rhubarb of mild flavor and with very little green color, since the green tissue is likely to darken in cooking. The jelly should have an acid but otherwise mild flavor, and a bright red color. If made with lemon pectin it should be clear and transparent; if made with apple pectin the color and appearance may not be so attractive, though the flavor and texture should be fairly good. The flavor of the old rhubarb is apt to be strong; when it is used the addition of one or two pieces of lemon or orange peel to the stems as they cook may perhaps be considered an improvement.

Wash and trim stalks of rhubarb, being careful not to remove the pink skin. Cut into half-inch pieces and place in an enameled ware (granite) pan. Add one cup of water for each pound of rhubarb. Cook until tender, then strain through four thicknesses of cheesecloth. There should be about 1½ cups of juice for each pound of rhubarb.

Add other ingredients to the juice in the proportions indicated above and boil. The ordinary jelly test can not always be depended upon in the case of rhubarb, particularly if the stalks are not very young and tender, because there are certain gummy substances present which cause the hot juice to sheet from the edge of the spoon, but which do not assist in making a jelly. It is therefore wise to cook somewhat beyond the usual jelly test.

ICE Is REAL "Food Insurance"

A well filled refrigerator all the year around is a sensible and economical method of insuring pure, wholesome food for your family all the year around.

Compared to the cost of your daily food, the cost of ice is trifling. Yet a little ice will save much expensive food. Not only that, but it will make your food taste better and be better for you.

Food that is kept in a temperature warmer than 50 degrees loses much of its nutritive value even before it shows actual signs of spoiling.

It is real economy, as well as a matter of health protection, to keep your refrigerator well filled with ice every day in the year.

MEXICAN WHEAT CROP 40 PERCENT BELOW LAST YEAR

MEXICO CITY, Mex. (By mail to United Press).—Mexico will produce about 124,000,000 kilos of wheat this year, according to unofficial reports.

This is about 40 per cent less than last year, observers say, blaming general condition. One of the outstanding features of this year's crop is the importance of wheat grown in the Yaqui valley. Recent estimates place the wheat crop of this valley, in the southern part of the state of Sonora, just below Guaymas, at 115,000 sacks, of 220 pounds each. This is compared to 78,000 sacks in 1922.

Canadian interests are making an effort to establish themselves in the wheat market here and are requesting, according to reports, that the duty on wheat imported to this country be cut to 2 cents per kilo. The duty is at present 4 cents per kilo.

No action has been taken on this reported request up to the present time as 5,000 tons of wheat grown in Yaqui Sonora is being brought to this city. It is believed that this wheat will first be sold before foreign wheat is given a hearing. American flour is selling on the east coast of Mexico for approximately $10 per barrel.

ROGER UNA-TRUCK TO HAVE PUBLIC DEMONSTRATION

A public lecture and demonstration on the Roger four-wheel truck drive will be given tomorrow, 2 p. m., at the company's offices and show rooms on West Harvard. This demonstration will reveal to those interested just what this truck will do and will prove of more than ordinary interest.

The Roger Una-Truck Motor company is a Glendale institution in which many prominent local men are interested, and its plans in the building of the new factory, one of the units of which is now being considered, will mean much in the development of Glendale and vicinity. A special invitation is extended to all to see this demonstration.

There is one particular objection which I think most men would have to marrying a woman doctor or lawyer. A sick man wants sympathy, love, and understanding from his wife—not pills. A man who has legal difficulties would prefer to get advice in large, professional doses elsewhere.

Pills and advice, when prescribed and served by one's wife, are both extremely hard to take.

"WAYFARER" WILL BE HELD OVER FOR PART NEXT WEEK

"The Wayfarer," now showing in the Coliseum, Los Angeles, will be held over for part of next week, according to an announcement from Merle Armitage, business manager. Additional performances will be given on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday nights. These will make up for the performances that were postponed on account of the rain. Bad weather interfered with "The Wayfarer" on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

The agreement to hold "The Wayfarer" over for a few days next week was reached late Wednesday when Wayfarer directors met. At first it was planned to close the production Saturday night, but because of the thousands of patrons who would thus be disappointed, and because of the tremendous cost of staging the pageant, it was deemed wise to hold the seven performances that were promised.

All proceeds are to go to the University of Southern California, which institution has co-operated in every way with Wayfarer officials, and as the cost of production is $125,000, the school would not receive much from the proceeds of five performances.

It was therefore determined to hold as many performances as possible this week, with the addition of enough next week to complete the program of seven in all.

Those who had tickets for postponed nights may exchange them for other nights at the Philharmonic box office. Box office reports continued heavy sale of seats.

J. BULL SPINNERS WILL GRADE OUR SOUTH'S COTTON

[By Associated Press]

GREENVILLE, Tex., Sept. 14.—The cotton seed breeding station maintained near here by the Federal Department of Agriculture will ship a list of cotton direct to English spinners as the initial step toward development of a system whereby foreign spinners can certify to American cotton producers and shippers the variety and grade of staple they desire.

Under the plan proposed, the local station will assemble a list of cotton and each bale will be marked with the variety and grade, and upon arrival at the mill the spinner will separate the cotton. Several varieties then will be started on the process of manufacturing into the finished product, a detailed record of each variety being kept until it is manufactured into various wares.

After the proper tests have been made the spinner will certify to the local station the variety and grade of cottons best suited to their needs and wants, following which machinery will be set in motion to produce those cottons to meet the foreign demand. Should the experiment prove a success, the opinion is expressed that the cotton industry of America will be revolutionized within the course of a few years.

Many a man would be unable to paddle his own canoe if he couldn't borrow some other man's paddle.

AT THE THEATERS

TEXAS RANGERS' HISTORY GLOWS WITH ROMANCE

The Texas Rangers were organized in 1832 and bore the brunt of the conflict when Texas separated from Mexico. Later they protected the frontier from the Indians and since have protected the border.

Along in the '70's and '80's the cattle rustling became rife. Whole herds were stolen. So the men were chosen for their absolute fearlessness and carried terror to the outlaws. They were the real gun-fighting men of the world.

Davy Crockett and other heroes of the Alamo were Rangers. Capt. McNelly's famous band of forty alone made 2,000 arrests besides killing many of the dangerous thieves.

"The Lone Star Ranger," the Zane Grey story in which William Fox has starred Tom Mix deals with the interesting life of these plains-watchmen. It shows for the last times today at the Glendale Theater.

Of course, the practice of law and medicine should not be confined to any one sex. But both medicine and law become socially dangerous when they claim many girls. Portia is one of the most attractive figures in all literature, but it is a matter of record that she was conspicuous in only one trial.

CHINAMEN FEAR POLICE TRAP AND GO OUT ON STRIKE

Apparently fearing a trap, with a recent Federal opium raid in Chinatown freshly in mind, several hundred Chinamen who had been engaged by Mrs. Wallace Reid to appear as extras in a scene for "Human Wreckage," her film on the drug evil which is now showing at the T. D. and L. theatre, refused pointblank to work in the picture when they learned that the scenes were to be taken in Chinatown.

Through a spokesman, the Orientals asserted their willingness to work on a set at the Ince studios, where the Reid picture was made, but registered keenest disapproval of the plans to make scenes in the Chinese quarters.

Mexicans and half-breeds were hastily rounded up by the casting director to take the place of the striking Chinamen, who hung around with surlly faces and threatening gestures until the cameramen set up their machines, when they dispersed.

This case ended, her career as a lawyer came to an end so far as we know. She reverted to the more important business of being a thoroughly human young lady.

Even if a man doesn't attempt to flirt with a pretty girl on a street car she suspects that he'd like to.

GREAT SCENES IN BLUEBEARD'S EIGHTH WIFE

There are many smashing scenes in "Bluebeard's 8th Wife," showing again today at the Gateway Theater. Those which will cause spectators to gasp are:

The scene where the husband finds his wife in a room with another man.

Miss Swanson's dive from a 40-foot cliff.

Revealing of the supposed Egyptian mummy, planned as a surprise, to be Miss Swanson. She is scantily dressed and slaves slowly unwind ribbons from her bronzed body. It is a complete surprise.

More pathetic scenes include: The wife's sacrifice, when she displaces beauty and romance to marry wealth, to save her bankrupt family.

Her sorrow when she discovers that her husband has had seven previous wives.

The husband is bound to excite sympathy at his treatment by his wife, who taunts him at every turn. His love is sure to win sympathy.

Scenes of cut back (Miss Swanson's imagination) to the ancient fairy tale, "Bluebeard's Chamber of Horrors." This dark chamber, wherein hang the bodies of seven women, is powerful.

DELPHIANS MEET TO OUTLINE WORK

Officers of the Glendale Delphian chapter met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. P. C. Mason, 625 North Maryland avenue, to outline plans for the year's work. The first topic of study is to be "Drama," beginning with the time of the Greek drama and continuing to the present day drama. Members of the Delphian Club will hold their first regular meeting on September 27 at the home of Mrs. Charles Marshall, 535 South Central avenue.

A number of new members are joining the club and an interesting season is being looked forward to. The Delphian year books have arrived and will be distributed at the first meeting of the season.

ENDICOTT SAYS BUSINESS GOOD

J. A. Endicott, who specializes in business property, says that never in his experience as a realtor in this city has he seen business as good for this time of year as it is right now; that the market is simply splendid. A great many outsiders, men of means, are coming in and investing in business and income properties. His sales last week aggregated over $100,000, mostly deals in business property.
